A Capita Conference

Tackling Sexual Violence

Monday 12th July 2010 – Central London

Capita's 8th National Tackling Sexual Violence Conference explores the key objectives in implementing a step change in service quality experienced by victims of sexual assault. This July's agenda brings together crucial sessions on delivering improvements in the conduct of effective investigations, interviews and prosecutions through to supporting victims through their experiences.

The strategic goals of reducing the incidences of sexual violence and providing the necessary services for the victims of sexual assault have been clearly outlined at national level. Achieving these goals requires a comprehensive service approach which can only be achieved by organisations working together. Through a series of expert led sessions this conference provides solutions to challenges facing those working to prevent assaults and support victims of sexual violence, including:

- Using the experiences of victims to create safer environments to reduce the risk of sexual assaults
- Improving the investigations and interviewing process to increase successful prosecutions
- Learning lessons from good practice both in the UK and across Europe on developing stronger interagency partnerships
- Supporting victims to report incidences and throughout the investigation process

Designed for delegates from the police, health services, local authorities and the voluntary sector, this comprehensive one day conference will give you the tools to improve the way you can work with partners to support victims and prosecute perpetrators of this devastating crime.

Sponsorship and Exhibitor Opportunities

We offer a range of flexible packages which offer your organisation a platform to network and communicate with key organisations in the public sector.

About us

Capita Conferences is one of the UK's leading conference providers to the public sector. For over 15 years we have attracted diverse and cross-cutting audiences from across the police, education, central and local government, health and the voluntary sector to our events. We provide neutral forums for learning as well as excellent networking opportunities and the chance to provide feedback on policy direct to the highest levels. We pride ourselves on our thoroughly researched, incisive programmes and have secured speakers including leading politicians, Government ministers, senior civil servants, directors of charities, expert practitioners and renowned academics. We have built our reputation by working in partnership with, and on the advice of, key government departments, experts and pressure groups.

Benefits of Attending

- Find out how strategic policy goals to reduce violence against women and young girls can be translated into operational ways of working, engaging statutory and voluntary sector agencies
- Improve the detection, investigation and prosecution of sexual assault cases through a robust approach to evidence gathering and interviewing techniques with proven results
- Close the gaps in measures to safeguard children from sexual abuse by building effective partnerships between health, social care, the police and other agencies
- Learn how an innovative partnership between police and support services is having a positive impact on preventing sexual violence
- Explore ways of reducing the fear and stigma of reporting assaults and changing people's perceptions of sexual violence
- Find out how to develop closer working links between the police and voluntary sector to help you put victims at the heart of services
